Research : The Effects of Saudi Pro League in Football Transfer Market

Saudi Pro League is a hot topic in today's football world. That changed the map of football. I am a football fan and watch the rules game. That's why I think now is the right time to talk about this topic. Also, a large part of our young generation is a fan of European football. Those who watch football games regularly. And since the topic selection has to relate to the younger generation, I think this is appropriate. Our young generation is not aware of many things while watching the game, and many people watch the game with passion. This is my podcast to introduce some new information to them. A lot of research went into making the podcast. Read various magazines. How do they see this change in football? How are their viewers watching? I have seen the news of various international news channels. Have seen football based news paper marker analysis. Fabrizio Romano, the transfer market's most reliable source of information, has seen the news. Then by analyzing all that I tried to make an information based podcast.

Intro :

Hello everyone and welcome to a brand new episode of the Sports talk podcast. Where we talk about sports. Today we will talk about the 2023 club football transfer window. I will discuss the role of Saudi clubs in world football today. And all this time I Saad bin Abbas Sanim will be with you.

Body:

We generally know that a club can buy a footballer of its choice for a certain amount of money for a certain period of time. This is how clubs form their teams. The more good footballers a club can buy, the better their league is. At one time the Italian league was the best in the world because the best footballers of that time played in Italian clubs. Footballers like Ronaldinho, Kaka, Maldini, Ronaldo Nazario, Buffon roamed the Italian clubs. At that time Italian football was defensive based. And defensive football was considered the role model of football at that time. In 2004, Mourinho broke the fence of defensive football and brought a new, dynamic football. Another kind of change comes in football. The reign of club football then passed from the hands of Italy to the hands of the English clubs. Again in 2009, the Spanish clubs shared the kingdom. This is how club football has been ruled by one country at a time. And it is possible through the transfer of good footballers. At that time, the transfer of Italian league, English league and Spanish league was within a certain amount of money. But in 2017, Neymar broke all records and moved to PSG for 222 million euros. And since then there has been a radical change in world football transfers. Since then footballers are also seen running after money. A club that offers more money tends to focus more on its footballers. Following this, Saudi Arabia came to the world of football. Saudi clubs started buying footballers one by one showing the jingle of money. Saudi Pro League started their mission by buying Cristiano Ronaldo. Currently, all the most expensive footballers in the world are in their league. Although this is good for many people, many people think that Saudi Arabia is ruining the beauty of football.

Conclusion :

Just as the reign of nothing in the world was not permanent, no country could reign permanently in football either. Football itself has expanded its scope. Football is now in Asia through Europe and America. Asia's burgeoning football is starting to dream today with the Saudi Pro League. Through this maybe there will be a renaissance of football in Asia. Those who are used to watching European football may not like this change. According to many, this may be the death of football. But in my opinion, with this change in football, it is necessary to change ourselves. Then maybe we can enjoy football. Waiting to see how the new horizon that Saudi Arabia is opening in football will bring benefits. Thank you for listening to my podcast. See you in the next episode. Till-then take care and good bye.
